

Rules concerning admission to a later part of a study programme at the Institute of Technology, Linköping University

Admission to a later part of a master's programme

Application

In order to apply for a later part, please see the instructions available at www.lith.liu.se/studievagledning.

Applications which are sent after deadline will only be processed if there are available seats and if there is available time to arrange it.

Admission

Admission is only possible if there are available seats. Admission to a later part of a master's programme at the Institute of Technology can earliest be granted to the second programme semester.

Eligibility

In order to be admitted to a later part of a master's programme at the Institute of Technology, LiU, you need to fulfill the following requirements:

- Basic eligibility to university studies at advanced level which means a bachelor's degree or similar. For study programmes using English as the language of instruction, English language proficiency corresponding to English B/English 6 is necessary. For programmes using Swedish as the language of instruction verified knowledge corresponding to Swedish 3/B and English 6/A.
- Special eligibility for the specific study programme.
- Prerequisites for the semester you are applying for, please see below.

Special prerequisites:

For programme semester 2

The applicant should have finished courses amounting to at least 12 hp which can be exchanged/replaced with at least 12 hp in the programme the applicant is applying for.

For programme semester 3

The applicant should have finished courses amounting to at least 30 hp which can be exchanged/replaced with at least 30 hp in the programme the applicant is applying for.

For programme semester 4

The applicant should have finished courses amounting to at least 60 hp, of which 30 hp should be at advanced level within the main field, which can be exchanged/replaced with at least 60 hp in the programme the applicant is applying for.

Selection

1. Applicants from LiU as well as applicants from universities that have signed student exchange agreements to enable studying at a master's programme at LiU.
2. Applicants from other universities
3. Late applications

If there are more qualified applicants than the number of available seats, a preference list with the selected candidates will be established. This list is based on the number of credits from earlier master's programme studies that the applicant has accomplished at the final day for submitting the application. If two or more candidates have the same number of credits the selection will be made by lot.
